Richards Hired, New Web Site Debuts at The Towner Management Group

Burlington, VT— The start of the New Year was eventful for The Towner Management Group, as Mary Richards joined the TMG as a vice president and account manager, while the company's new web site debuted.

“We're excited about hiring Mary, who brings a wealth of experience in captive management and risk retention groups (RRGs) to TMG and our clients,” says Guy Ragosta, CEO of U.S. Operations for TMG. “And our new web site has generated a lot of positive feedback from our clients. We plan to keep the web site current with news and information our clients and prospects can use.”

Richards has had a long career in captive management and as a financial executive for a non-profit company. Prior to joining TMG, she was vice president and senior client manager for Champlain Management, now part of Artex, and an account manager for SB&T Captive Management. Previously, Mary was vice president of finance and administration for Shelburne Museum.

“I have experience both as an insurance purchaser for a non-profit and as a captive account manager for the past decade,” she says. “So as a former insurance purchaser, I understand what non-profits have to deal with and the constraints they're under.”
